

Dr. Graham Tse
Chief Medical Officer
MemorialCare

Dr. Graham Tse has served at MemorialCare Miller Children's & Women's Hospital Long Beach for more than 20 years and in 2017, added an administrative role to his responsibilities when he became Chief Medical Officer. Board-certified in pediatrics and pediatric critical care, his clinical interests include quality, best practices, utilization management, organ donation, and clinical documentation improvement. Throughout his career, Dr. Tse has held numerous leadership positions, served on several medical staff committees, gained extensive experience in teaching at Miller Children's & Women's and has received numerous awards, including Physician of the Year at Miller Children's & Women's. During the COVID-19 pandemic, he serves as the physician in charge in the Hospital Incident Command Center for both Miller Children's & Women's and Long Beach Medical Center. As physician in charge, he contributed to the team in epidemiology and infection control decisions; physician support, communications, coordination and staffing; and creation and implementation of COVID-19 units, & clinical practices within the two hospitals.